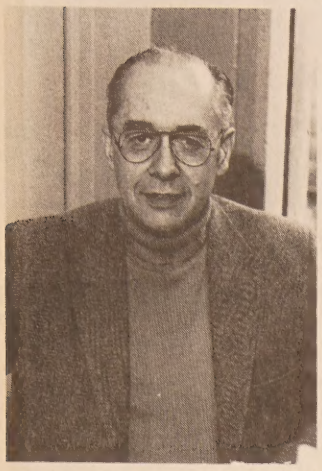
Human Rights Commission chooses new Chairman



MARIO FAYE

Mario Faye, five year member of the Tacoma Human Rights Commission, was selected in January by the Commission's unanimous vote to be Chairman.

Commission members are nominated on the basis of their leadership and involvement as representatives of the general public. Faye was originally nominated to the HRC by an anonymous individual and appointed by the Tacoma City Council.

Born in Chile, Faye has, since 1965, been the only full-time foreign language teacher at Tacoma Community College. Between 1970 and 1979, Faye helped direct Los Unidos, the organization for Hispanic students attending TCC. He was also a member of the advisory board for MASH, meaning Mexican American Self-Help, an organization of Hispanic inmates at the McNeial Island Federal Penitentiary. Presently, he is the first vice-president of the Washington Community College Humanities Association.

Because of his background as an educator, Faye affirms that he has "an unusual contribution to make. The Commission will take on an educational tone."

Boys and Girls Clubs in National Celebration April 10–16

The week of April 10-16 will be an exciting time for 5,500 local youngsters as they help celebrate National Boys & Girls Club Week. Games, carnivals, movies, and other special activities are scheduled at each of four Tacoma clubs throughout the week.

The importance of this celebration is "to raise public awareness of how Boys & Girls Clubs benefit the community by giving kids the support needed for their personal growth and development," said Henry Hass, President of the Tacoma Boys & Girls Clubs. He invites the general public to visit the clubs anytime, 1 - 9 p.m., Monday - Friday.

Local club members will join a million other kids served by Boys & Girls Clubs throughout the nation. In recognition of this annual celebration, President Reagan will officially declare National Boys Club Week today. Mayor Dough Southerland is expected to issue a Mayor's Proclamation for the week's observance during the City Council Meeting April 12th.

To see what Boys & Girls Clubs are attempting to overcome, one need only look at some of the statistics. Nationwide, 44 percent of all Club members come from families with annual income of less than $8,000, and almost one-third come from families receiving public assistance. Approximately half of these youngsters come from single parent families.

Edward Lewis, local martial expert

Edward Lewis is the founder of Yao Mun Nomad, a free style system accredited by the World Union Martial Arts and International Karate Do Federation in 1982.

Lewis, who was promoted to sixth degree black belt by the World Union Martial Arts and International Karate Do Federation, and the South American Association of Shotokan Karate Do in 1982, also holds a second-degree black belt in Isshinryu, and a first-level Arnis trainer's certificate from the International Philippines Martial Arts Association.

Lewis was active in tournament competition from 1967 until 1975 and placed consistently in both kata and kumite in Canada, Washington, and Oregon tournaments during those years. He was rated one of the best kata players in the Pacific Northwest by Professional Karate Magazine in 1975.

Lewis began his teacning career in 1972. He taught Isshinryu under Steve Armstrong (1972-1975), and in 1977 opened Yao Mun Nomad, and academy he still owns and operates. "Nomad stands for New Organization of Martial Arts and Self Defense," Lewis explains. "Our system is based on hard and soft techniques - Tai Chi Chuan, karate, kung-fu, judo, boxing, and kick-boxing, as well as street fighting techniques. We combined these techniques to get more of an open approach to martial arts training."

Lewis has also taught for Pacific Lutheran University (1973-1977), local security companies, and the Seattle and Tacoma police departments. He has held classes for Ft. Lewis Army Base and McChord AFB since 1977, and since 1978 has taught for Pierce County Boy's Club, and the Pierce County Corporate Extension and Civil Arts Commission.

Lewis, who is currently the senior full contact promoter for the Washington-Oregon area, recently received an award from the South American Shotokan Association for outstanding achievement in sports in the northwest area. He has promoted several televised events for local cable stations with Joe Lewis and Bill Wallace, and was nominated for PKA Official of the Year and PKA Promoter of the Year in 1982.

Lewis, who received a BFA in public relations from Pacific Lutheran University in 1977, has been a promoter of PKA full contact and pro black belt challenge fights since 1980. He is currently the PKA representative for the Pacific Northwest region.

Many blacks are worse off today than they were two decades ago and entrance into the middle-class is not imminent for them, according to a study, Black America in 1980's, by Howard University sociologist John Reid released December 13. He found: In 1959, 1.9 million black families were below poverty level; in 1981, 2 million. The black jobless rate was 9.5 percent in 1960 (4.8 percent for whites) and 20.2 percent in October 1982 (9.3 percent ,or whites)....Final Age Discrimination Act regulations were published by the Department of Health and Human Services on December 28.....In a study of foundation giving, the National Puerto Rican Coalition found that less than 0.2 percent of all grant funds ($7 million out of $3 billion) went to Puerto Rican institutions. The Coalition is seeking to place more Puerto Ricans with foundations.

BAHA'I COMMUNITY OF TACOMA

Tacoma, Washington, The Baha'i Community of Tacoma will be hosting a talk by Loyd Myatt on Friday, April 8th. The subject of Mr. Myatt's talk will be "The need for the establishment of a universal language." As part of the discussion, Mr. Myatt will talk about how BaHa'u'llah, the prophet founder of the Baha'i Faith, over one hundred years ago said that mankind had seen, through Him, the day to end frontiers between countries and that communication would close the gap among different cultures. But this would have to be achieved, among other things, through a universal language. Regular Friday, night firesides are held at 7:30 p.m. at 1732 S. 41st Street in Tacoma. For more information or directions please call the Baha'i Faith at 474-8029.

NIH DIRECTOR TO KEYNOTE MINORITY RESEARCH SYMPOSIUM

National Institutes of Health Director Dr. James Wyngaarden will keynote the 11th Annual Minority Biomedical Research Support (MBRS) Symposium, scheduled for April 7-9 at Washington's Shoreham Hotel. Dr. Wyngaarden will speak on "New Inborn Errors of Purine Metabolism" at 9 a.m., on April 8th, in the Shoreham's Regency Ballroom.

Also addressing the Symposium will be Assistant Secretary for Health, Dr. Edward Brandt, who will speak on technology and medicine following the banquet on the evening of April 9th.

The MBRS Symposium, which is being held in Washington for the first time, is a meeting of approximately 1,500 students and faculty conducting biomedical research at colleges and universities with high minority enrollments. Funder by the Division of Research Resources of the National Institutes of Health and coordinated by Howard University, the Symposium is the largest gathering of minority biomedical researchers in the United States.

THE MINORITY BIOMEDICAL RESEARCH PROGRAM OF THE DIVISION OF RESEARCH RESOURCES, N.I.H.

Although ethnic minority groups comprise more than 18 percent of this country's total population, they make up less than two percent of the Ph. D. science and engineering workforce. This mission of the Minority Biomedical Research Support (MBRS) Program--to increase the number of quality of minority biomedical research scientists--was established in response to this dearth of minority scientists available to participate in National Institutes of Health (NIH) research.

One cause of this under-representation has been the limited involvement of minority institutions in biomedical research prior to the advent of the MBRS Program. This situation resulted from several factors, including: (1) institutional attitudes that emphasized teaching as the predominant mission; (2) heavy teaching loads that left little or no time for faculty to conduct research; (3) lask of funds and inadequate facilities and equipment for research; and (4) inadequate faculty staffing for research.

As direct response to redress these kinds of issues and to help rectify such under-representation, the Minority Biomedical Research Support Program was begun in 1972 within the NIH's Division of Research Resources. In this program, the Division has capitalized on a unique opportunity to contribute to the scientific manpower development in areas not previously supported by the NIH.

The students in this environment can accelerate their learning experience at a much faster rate than in an environment which may be unfamiliar or alien and sometimes discouraging to a minority student who might want to pursue a science career.

HELP FOR POTENTIAL CARTOONISTS

You have this great idea for a cartoon. So you sit down and draw it up, and it look like a cross between an Egyptian hieroglyph and something the dog chewed up. You show it to a friend and he thinks you're experimenting with Rorschach testing.

It you yearn to express yourself through cartooning, but can't quite make your ideas come across on paper, there is help for you in non-credit, community service class at Fort Steilacoom Community College spring quarter.

Instructor David Flemming, who uses cartooning in his work as a professional graphisc artist, will cover basic drawing, design, caricature, color, and use of captions in the eight-week class which meets Mondays, 6-8 p.m., beginning April 11. The cost is $30.

Preregistration is advised, as community service classes are self-supporting and subject to cancellation if enrollment if insufficient. For further information on this and other community service classes at FSCC, call Marilee Titus at 964-6633.

VICTIMIZATION STUDY

Beginning in late March and extending through April, 1983, students from the University of Puget Sound will be assisting the Tacoma Police Department in conducting a victimization study.

Chief Patrick L. Johnson stated that this study will involve a telephone survey of some 800 randomly selected phone numbers within Tacoma, and will involve questions regarding police response and service as well as questions about the frequency of crime in Tacoma.

Hopefully, through this survey, Chief Johnson stated, we will be able to better assess the actual crime rates in Tacoma and adjust our methods and emphasis to improve police service to the community.

Chief Johnson requests that those individuals who are contacted take the time to respond to the inquiries posed to them, thereby, assisting the Tacoma Police Department in completing the survey.

Should you want to verify the identity of the caller representing us, please contact the Operations Office at 591-5952.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD

Parents are the focus of a new program to be offered by Planned Parenthood of Pierce County. The program, made possible by a $26,500 grant from James Bowman, Associates in Seattle, will offer workshop to assist parents in their role as the primary sex educators for their children. The workshops are slated to begin in May.

"It's important to realize that many of the attitudes children develop about sexuality have their roots in early childhood," explains Bachant. "The process of sexuality learning doesn't begin at age 10 or 11." The program will include workshops for parents of young children, as well as for parents of pre-adolescents and adolescent. Workshops will also be offered for parents and children together.

Persons interested in participating in the program may telephone Planned Parenthood of Pierce County at 572-6955.

Jenny McIntyre, Sye Meyer, Legislative Pages

OLYMPIA -- Two Ferrucci Junior High School eighth-graders recently had the opportunity to serve as legislative pages in Olympia. Jenny McIntyre and Sue Meyer, both 14, were sponsored by Rep. George Walk, D-Puyallup.

"I was overwhelmed by their helpfulness and their energy," Walk said. "I wish they could have stayed for the whole session."

"Both girls are very active in school activities and have a variety of interest," Walk said. "I think their interest in the state government is admirable. It's important that young people become involved in the democratic process to make it work."

Jenny and Sue are both members of the basketball, volleyball, and baseball teams. Jenny is also involved in journalism and drama, and ejoys skiing. She is the daughter of Mike and Margie McIntyre of Puyallup. She is active in her school's Beautification Committee and served as ASB Treasurer this year.

SAINT MARK
CHAPTER I

The beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, the son of God;

As it is written in the prophets, Behold, I send my messengers before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

Thy voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.

John did baptize in the widerness, and preach the baptism of repentance for remission of sins.

And there went out unto him all the land of Judaea, and they of Jerusalem, and were all baptized of him in the river of Jordan, confessing their sins.

And John was clothed with camel's hair, and with a girdle of a skin about his loins; and he did eat locusts and wild honey.

And preached, saying, There cometh one mightier than I after me, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to stoop down and unloose.

I indeed have baptized you with water: but he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost.

And it came to pass in those days that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John in Jordan.

And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens opened, and the Spirit like a dove descending upon him:

And there came a voice from heaven, saying, Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

And immediately the spirit driveth him into the wilderness.

And he was there in the wilderness forty days, tempted of Satan.

We welcome news of your church and civic events.

SOMETHING'S WRONG

Equality was once an issue everyone acknowledged. For or against, it was hard to ignore. And that was good; it is an important and moral issue. But now, something's gone wrong. People forget that the advances made by the minorities in this country came after decades of struggle.

The NAACP hasn't forgotten; through the changes of presidents and national moods, the NAACP has single-mindedly sought one goal: EQUALITY IN ALL ASPECTS OF AMERICAN LIFE. It has contributed greatly to the quality of life in America for Black citizens. Now, the NAACP needs your contribution.

You can contribute to the NAACP painlessly by telling your employer (city, county, state government or major corporation), you'd like to give to the NAACP through a payroll deduction plan.

The NAACP hasn't forgotten!

Don't forget the NAACP! HELP US HELP OURSELVES.

SEATTLE, WASH.--The Veterans Administration announced last November that more than 8,000 VA guaranteed home loans in the State of Washington, with interest rates ranging from 13 - 19 percent, were for refinancing.

According to Donald E. Austin , Loan Guaranty Officer for the Seattle VA Regional Office, as of March 1st, only 700 veterans have refinanced their VA loans to reduce the interest rate.

Austin encourages veterans to contact their lenders and apply for a refinancing loan to substantially reduce both their interest rate and monthly payment. Veterans will reduce monthly payments, usually, by $150 to $300. The total cost of the property, over the full term of the loan, in most cases will be reduced by $75,000 or more.

Veterans in Washington State number 612,000. Less than 100,000 GI loans are currently active. Veterans are encouraged to consider utilization of their VA benefit when buying a residence for their own use to list for sales to veterans.

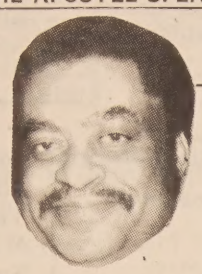
THE APOSTLE SPEAKS



HAVE YOU BELIEVED OUR REPORT?
SERIES #I, PART 7.
JESUS IS COMING SOON, PREPARE TO MEET HIM.

Jesus spoke of his return when he gave the parable in the 25th chapter of Matthew beginnning with the Ist verse.

Then shall the Kingdom of heaven be likened unto ten virgins, which took their lamps, and went forth to meet the bridegroom.

And five of them were wise, and five were foolish.

They that were foolish took their lamps, and took no oil with them.

But the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps.

While the bridegroom tarried, they all slumbered and slept.

And at midnight ther was a cry made, Behold the Bridegroom cometh: go ye out to meet him.

Then all those virgins arose and trimmed their lamps.

And the foolish said unto the wise give us of your oil: for our lamps are gone out.

But the wise answered, saying Not so: Lest their be not enough for us and you, but go ye rather to them that sell and buy for yourselves.

And while they went to buy,the Bridegroom came:and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage: and the door was shut.

Afterwards came also the other virgins saying, Lord, Lord,open to us.

But he answered and said Verily I say unto you, I Know you not.

Watch therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son Of Man Cometh.

ARE YOU THE WISE OR THE FOOLISH?

TO BE EQUAL

SHARE THE WORK
JOHN E. JACOB

Suddenly there are a lot of stories about how the economy has "bottomed out" and the recovery is beginning. Only time will tell whether that's true, and whether the recovery will be long-term or just another upward blip in a downward trend..

But whichever it proves to be, no one seriously expects unemployment to come down by much. Even the optimists believe the end of the year will still find about ten million people jobless.

Nor will the various job-creation programs now being considered by Congress do much to curb unemployment. Virtually all would create barely a fraction of the necessary jobs. If available work is going to be limited, equity suggests that it be shared.

Voluntary work-sharing is not new. It has been around for a while, and received new impetus during the last deep recession in the mid-seventies.

Briefly, the idea is that instead of laying off workers firms cut the work week for all. If a factory plans to cut twenty percent of its workforce, it would, instead, put everyone on a four-day week. The savings to the company are the same, but the pain is spread more evenly.

Instead of twenty percent of the work force losing important fringe benefits, especially health insurance, all would keep those benefits but at the price of losing a day's apy.

Instead of going down the seniority lists and laying off the last hired--disproportionately minority and young workers--everyone would share partial unemployment.

Now this is not very appealling to the eighty percent who would otherwise have kept their jobs and benefits intact. Fairness is something people tend to define according to their own self-interest.

So the key to successful work-sharing program is something call short-time compensation. STC is a change in the unemployment insurance laws that would provide prorated benefits for time lost to workers on short-week schedules adopted to avoid total layoffs.

Under current law in most states unemployment compensation is only paid when workers are laid off. It's an all-or-nothing proposition. There's no provision for the partial layoffs of a work-sharing plan.

Three states do have a voluntary STC, in which participating employers can file for coverage. Some unions have negotiated various forms of work sharing alternatives to the old seniority-based layoff system.

The federal government provides help to states in an experimental program that enables widespead use of work sharing arrangements as an alternative to layoffs.

Because all affected workers would be able to receive unemployment benefits covering their loss of job income, they would not lose out even though they work fewer hours and collect less pay. Their take-home pay would be about the same.

Work sharing combined with STC is especially important in a deep recession, when laid off workers have little hope of finding new jobs. It's good for the workers, for their employers and for the economy.

DISREPECT BY DEMOCRATIC PARTY DENIES CBC BUDGET HOUSE VOTE

Last week, I joined my courageous colleague from Michigan, the Honorable John Conyers, in pleading before the Rules Committee to allow full and open debate and a vote in the U.S. House of Representatives on the Congressional Black Caucus' budget proposal, a legitimate and essential alternative in the crucial debate respecting our government's budgetary priorities.

The Rules Committee refused, however, to hear us. They presumably felt that such an opening would permit a rule for an alternative budget proposal more conservative than the Reagan-backed proposal.

As a consequence the Black Members of Congress could not debate and argue for their own budget proposal with the same standing on the House floor as those who supported the Democratic proposal. This was the first time in three years in which the Congressional Black Caucus did not submit a proposal during the budget debates.

Such a decision by the Rules Committee deprived minorities, the working poor and the unemployed of putting forth an alternative to the administration's agenda which calls for decreasing outlays for bread while increasing outlays for bombs. The net effect being to should be a domestic policy line above which our government will not tolerate unemployment--a line above which we will not tolerate deprivation or disrepect of our elderly--a line above which we will not tolerate hunger or homelessness.

Certainly we cannot insist that our white-fellow Democrats accept our priorities, however, we must insist upon equal rights to be heard.

It is this denial that I fought against in support of the CBC alternative budget. Indeed, it is just such a denial that has resulted in the Democratic Party split, along racial lines, in Chicago's mayoral campaign. It is just such disrespect as this that is justifying Black Democratic voters turning out of frustration to a Black candidate in the Democratic presidential primaries, even if such a candidacy has no chance of ever winning our party's nomination.

Yes, Black political leaders must insist upon being heard rather than being spoken for by white Democrats whether in the mayoral campaign in Chicago, the presidential campaign across the country or budget debates on the floor of Congress.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ARMED GUARD EJECTS CHRISTIAN PRESIDENT

Bruce Wooten, was President of the Manhattan Dunce Club from his installation at a Grand March on January 26, I983, until the Kangaroo Court action of March 23, I983. Bruce's reign of terror was especially vicious and abusive after the evening of March 2nd, when he reprimanded Past President Marvel Holmes for seriouly offending member Alice Hultin on a dress code matter. The Kangaroo Court of March 23, I983, presided by Vice President Roma Paul and absentee Secretary Billie Finigan, finally ended the gorilla-fighter president's three-week reign to terror, during which time President Wooten was able to attend only one dance of the Dunce Club. Alice will never return.

Single Christians of all ages who like Ballroom and Western dancing may contact Bruce and be invited. Wooten was conspicous on the afternoon of March 20th after meeting with Christian Solos, for disco dancing in the back yard of a home on Narrow Drive, and then in driving his three-speed home in his white suit and cowboy hat.

Legal action against "the marvelous" of the dance Club is pending. "Brutal Bruce", ominous and sullen free-lance graphic artist, is innovative with his rattling saber.
